

Embracing Sustainable Palm Oil: Solutions for Local Production and Global Change

BICC, The Westin Resot Nusa Dua, Bali
25 - 27 April 2018

Opening remarks: Coordinating Minister for Economic Affairs*

KEYNOTE SPEECH

- Minister of Agriculture of the Republic of Indonesia*
- Minister of Environment and Forestry of the Republic of Indonesia*
- Minister of Agrarian of the Republic of Indonesia*

The International Conference on Oil Palm and Environment (ICOPE) is the world's leading, dedicated biannually conference exploring the balance between palm oil development and sustainability. Since 2007 this conference has been organized by Sinar Mas Agribusiness and Food, CIRAD, a research institution based in France, and World Wildlife Fund (WWF) Indonesia.

Bringing together scientists, academics, experts, industry members, governments and other key stakeholders ICOPE 2018 will again provide opportunities to learn and share views on best practices aimed at achieving high productivity of large and small plantations, coupled with a high level of sustainability at a global landscape level.

Despite the significant efforts of key actors of the palm oil sector over the last 10 years to transform the industry into a more sustainable sector, recent reports and decisions from palm oil consuming countries have shown that these efforts are not being fully recognised.

The 6th ICOPE will include sessions on:

- Contribution of oil palm to achieve the Sustainable Development Goals in tropical countries (large plantations and smallholders): Views from South East Asia, Africa and South America
- Reaching a global consensus on sustainability standards Landscape integration of large and small plantations;
- Ecosystem functions restoration, ecosystem services in oil palm cultivation
- Carbon footprint and water footprint: What improvements are expected?
- Contribution of technologies such as drones, smart systems and artificial intelligence to reach higher level of sustainability with respect to production and conservation

to be confirmed*

Combining General Lectures on broad subject areas with Technical Sessions on various papers presented by stakeholders such as research institutions, palm oil growers and millers, government agencies, financial institutions and NGOs, ICOPE 2018 aims to generate solutions-oriented discussions.
